

The Most Dangerous Game

by Richard Connell

Karner & Riddell 2011

Indolently

lazy or lethargic to do something

Disarming

winning favor or confidence

Condone

allow or accept behavior that is morally wrong

Scruples

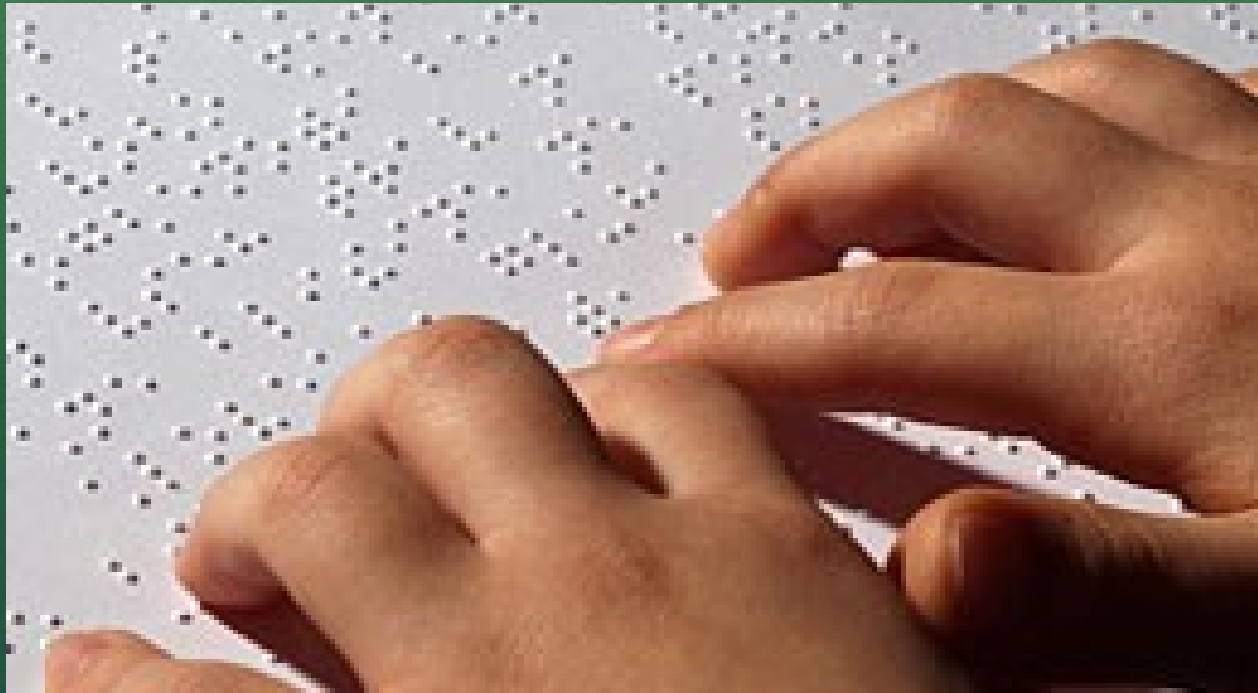

a feeling of doubt or hesitation based on morality

Dank

damp and musty

Tangible

perceptible by touch

Foreshadow

“I’ll get you my pretty and your little dog too!”

Metaphor

Life is a precious gift.

Personification

The stars danced playfully in the moonlit sky.

Simile

"Ogres are like onions."

